Thursday saw the whales again to leeward kept off after them Sep the 5 and soon got amongst them the Standard struck Continued a 60 bl whale he somersaulted heavy took all but one flake of blubber out the tub and then came up we hauled up to him undertook to get in the second iron but did not he wiped us with his tail and went down again the iron drewed and we lost him O dear hard luck - hard luck the whales went off we then went on board with long faces a storm boat and 8e at anchor shortened and steered by the wind to the SE about 10 1/2 they were too cunning for us we chased them until dark but it was all in vain we could not get on so we came on board down hearted a little at 7 PM shortened sail middle part fine weather at 8 AM wore ship and stood to the SE at daylight while making sail a large whale broke water within 2 ship lengths of our Standard being heading N. W. he perceived the ship and was galloped we down with the Standard and after him and got within 200 yds of him but he was off we saw him arising from the ship and chased him 10 or 12 miles with the boat but the wind left us so he went off at 12 PM the boat returned to the ship we steered N. by E. for him but all was in vain so ends then 24 at daylight took in the whale's body the wind breezing on strong from the S.W. with showers of rain and a heavy swell running at 8 A.M. we undertook to wear the ship round to to cut the second whale to leeward and lost the whale head from along side lower to boats once finally got fast to it with lines by streaming & towlines from the ship to it and under to haul it along by that time the wind blew a young gale we got in about 2 lines and the wind draved and we lost some long faces then I can tell you - the sea being so heavy then we did not attempt to cut the other whale but went to boiling so under there we got the third fluke chain on to the whale for fear of loosing him there being a tremendous sea running both in the boat transverse up the larboard and East boats and got things snug under a close reefed main top sail about that time one of the fluke chains parted from the whale the wind still increasing at 8 P.M. the second fluke chain parted carried away the fore top sail sheet bits of fluke chain shook and raised guy almost made a wreck of us we did part the wind slackened at daylight - it was nearly calm with a tremendous swell however we hooked on to the whale and undertook to cut him in ship's shape - then over
